

SMOKEFREE STATES AND CITIES IN THE UNITED STATES

The scientific evidence is clear: Secondhand smoke is a proven cause of serious diseases and premature death. That's why people across the United States and around the world are speaking up for their right to breathe clean, smoke-free air. And it's why a growing number of cities, states and countries are enacting laws that require all workplaces and public places to be smoke-free.

In the United States:

- 24 states, Washington, D.C., and Puerto Rico have passed smoke-free laws that cover restaurants and bars. The states are Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawai'i, Illinois, Iowa (July 1, 2008), Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana (extends to bars Sept. 1, 2009), Nebraska (June 1, 2009), New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Oregon (Jan. 1, 2009), Rhode Island, Utah (extends to bars Jan. 7, 2009), Vermont and Washington.
- Four other states — Florida, Idaho, Louisiana and Nevada — have smoke-free laws that cover restaurants but exempt stand-alone bars.
- Hundreds of cities and counties across the country have also taken action. ¹
