Most counties and cities do not have their own cigarette tax rates, but there are major exceptions. More than 600 local jurisdictions have their own cigarette tax rates, bringing in more than $420 million in revenue in 2018 and working effectively to reduce smoking rates, especially among youth. The table shows state and local cigarette excise tax rates currently in effect. These combined cigarette tax rates do not include the federal cigarette tax ($1.01 per pack) or any state or local sales taxes that apply to cigarettes. Nationally, estimated smoking-caused health costs and lost productivity totals $19.16 per pack. The average state cigarette tax rate, not including local tax rates, is $1.81 per pack.

New York City is the only locality with its own cigarette tax in New York State. Philadelphia is the only locality with its own cigarette tax in Pennsylvania. There are at least 15 local taxes in Alaska, some of which are adjusted for inflation annually and some of which are collected as a percent of wholesale price. Alabama ($0.67 per pack) has 343 cities and 54 counties with their own low cigarette taxes; Illinois ($2.98 per pack) has three cities and one county; Missouri ($1.17 per pack) has 128 cities and 2 counties; Ohio ($1.60 per pack) has one county; Colorado ($0.84 per pack) has seven cities and three counties all with tax rates at or more than $2.00 per pack; and Virginia (30¢ per pack), has 96 cities and two counties with local tax rates ranging from four cents to $1.15, with the highest combined rate of $1.45 per pack in Alexandria. San Francisco charges a $1.00 per pack Cigarette Litter Abatement Fee in addition to the state excise tax, but localities in CA cannot impose local cigarette excise taxes. Because of the low cigarette tax in some states, their highest state-plus-local rates can still be lower than many other states’ cigarette taxes. Some states prohibit local cigarette tax rates or limit the maximum rates. Some localities also impose a tax on non-cigarette tobacco products.
